OverDrive App Comes to NOOK® and Kindle Fire

Borrowing eBooks and audiobooks from the library just got easier for users of Barnes & Noble's NOOK™.

Barnes & Noble has added the OverDrive Media Console app to the NOOK Apps™ store.

All NOOK devices have always enabled users to read eBooks borrowed from libraries, but the process required sideloading the files from a computer using Adobe Digital Editions and a USB cable. Now NOOK users can borrow eBooks and audiobooks wirelessly.

Users can visit the NOOK Apps store to install the free OverDrive Media Console (OMC) app. The app enables users to locate a library, browse or search their eBook and audiobook collection and, after entering a valid library card number, check-out and download the title for a lending period of one to two weeks. At the end of the lending period, the title simply expires.

While the app is free, users will need a valid NOOK account in order to download the app.

Also, OMC is available to Kindle Fire users in the Amazon App Store for Android, making it easier to access eBooks and audiobooks from OverDrive-powered libraries. Users can now browse their library's digital collection from within the application—no need to launch a separate browser window.

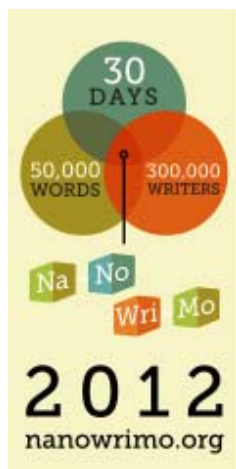

Please see a librarian if you need further instruction.

ANDY WARHOL AND POP ART

Wednesday, November 28 • 7:00 p.m.

This program is funded by the Horizons Speakers Bureau of the New Jersey Council for the Humanities, a state partner of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

50,000 words, and one original novel.

Why? Because November is National Novel Writing Month, or NaNoWriMo, the world's largest writing event and non-profit literary crusade. Participants pledge to write 50,000 words in a month. There are no judges, no prizes, and entries are deleted from the server before anyone even reads them.

Although the event emphasizes creativity and adventure over creating a literary masterpiece, more than 90 novels begun during NaNoWriMo have since been published, including Water for Elephants by Sara Gruen, The Night Circus by Erin Morgenstern, and Cinder by Marissa Meyer, all #1 New York Times bestsellers.

For more information about National Novel Writing Month, and to get started, visit www.nanowrimo.org.

The library will be hosting a one-day NaNoWriMo Write-In on Sunday, November 18, 12:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. Aspiring writers are invited to come and write, share, be inspired, and enjoy the company of other writers.
